

REACH-OUTS

Start this week. Your network is the people you already know.
You just haven't reached out to them yet.

Who?	First line I could send to them?

This week, send one. Just one.

Pick one that feels easiest and send it!

REACH-OUT BRAINSTORMING

- Who went out of their way for me that I haven't properly thanked?
 - a teacher/boss who wrote a recommendation letter, the person who sat with you when you knew nobody, a friend who talked you down before an exam
- Who in my life could I learn more about what they do?
 - a parent's friend with an interesting job, a friend/family member already in the field you like, the family friend you only see at holidays
- Who in my work/school life could I get to know better?
 - the professor whose class you actually like, the TA who explained the one thing nobody else could, whoever runs the club/makerspace/lab you keep walking past

Additional Prompts:

- Who believed in you before you had proof to show them?
- Who said something to you that you still think about?
- Who opened a door for you - even a small one?
- Who taught you something valuable completely for free?
- Whose advice would you want if things got hard tomorrow?
- Who in your classes, labs, office hours seems to know everyone - or know the material?
- Whose work have you seen that you'd like to understand better?
- Who's doing something you've never done but are curious about?
- Who in your shared spaces (department, cohort, volunteer gig) do you keep meaning to talk to?
- Who would you invite for a 15-minute coffee just to hear how they think?
- Who in your family or friends-of-family has a job you've always wondered about?
- Who's an older friend, cousin, or sibling's friend already in the field you think you like?
- Who from the past have you lost track of and "what are you up to?" might be worth it?
- Who in your personal circle makes things happen (organizes, hosts, connects people)?
This person is a hub!
- Who is one step ahead of you at something you care about?
- Who's living a version of the life you want and who in your circle might know them?
- Who's working in the space you can't stop reading about?
- Who have you admired from afar? What would you actually ask them if you approached?
- Who is something that intrigued you and you want to understand the thinking behind?
- Who could use a thank-you, a link, a connection, or an extra pair of hands from you?
- Who's working on something where you could genuinely help, even a little?
- Who's new to your scene you could welcome the way someone welcomed you?
- Who deserves one line of encouragement you've never sent?
- Who's in a totally different field that you genuinely like talking to?
- Who's an interesting stranger you already know (a barista who remembers you, campus IT, the desk attendant who sees everyone)?
